

Comic-Con Prague: Home Edition serves as a thank you to fans of the festival

Prague, 23rd April 2021 – Today, Comic-Con Prague organizers revealed the program for the online event Comic-Con Prague: Home Edition, which will take place on the 9th May. The event is free for Comic-Con Prague 2021 ticket holders, as a thank you for their patience. For others, tickets will be available for a symbolic sum of 90 Kč. Tickets will be available via the Ticketmaster site.

“It is still unsuitable to host culture events in the current climate. At first, we moved the Comic-Con Prague dates from February to May, then recently, we had to move the event to October. As a result, for fans of the festival, we prepared a surprise in the form of an online event on the 9th May. Comic-Con Prague: Home Edition is a gift to them for their patience and support, which they continue to express. We, as event organizers, also feel a huge urge to host a real event,” says Pavel Renčín, Head of Marketing at Active Radio, joint organisers of the event.

In the program's first part, fans can look forward to seeing famous and popular domestic and international creators. Moreover, there will be no shortage of fan shows and other unique content. “The first part of the program will allow fans to ask their favourite star actors questions during the events. Fans will therefore have a unique opportunity to ask writer Tad Williams, for example, what interests him,” adds Václav Pravda, Program Director of the festival.
